

LANGUE VIVANTE I*Epreuve du 1^{er} groupe*ANGLAIS*Insecurity : a global disease

Do you at times feel that your life and style are vulnerable and uncertain ? You are not alone, millions of people feel that way. Unchecked by national, religious or social barriers, insecurity spreads like a disease, afflicting people from Moscow to Manhattan.

When our life is insecure, we are according to one dictionary : “beset by fear and anxiety”. Anxiety is an emotional burden that produces stress, which can impair our health. But why do we feel insecure ?

Within the European Union (EU), one person in six lives below the poverty line, 18 millions are out of work, and countless others live in fear of losing their jobs. In several other countries parents are horrified because of the presence of pedophiles threatening their children’s lives. In one developed country, 2 people out of 3 are anxious about the threat of crime. Third World inhabitants as well feel increasing alarm because of vandalism, terrorism and pollution.

Life and livelihood are at risk not only because of social aberrations but also because of natural disasters, such as torrential rains, tornadoes, floods, etc...For example, floods struck Central Europe when the Oder and Neisse rivers burst their banks. According to the Polish weekly ‘Polityca’, huge areas of agricultural land were inundated, as well as 86 cities and some 900 villages. About 50,000 households lost their crops, and almost 50 people lost their lives. Mud slides in early 1998 killed thousands of human beings in Southern Italy.

But are we not assured that life is more secure than it was ten years ago ? Did the end of the cold war not mean a scaling down of armed forces ?

Yes, national security has at least improved. However, personal security is affected by what happens in the home and on the street. If we lose our job or if we suspect that a mugger or a pedophile is lurking outside, then even if many weapons are dismantled, we feel anxious and insecure. How are some people coping with the uncertainty of life ? Even more important, is there a way of making everyone’s life, yours included, permanently secure ? That’s a big question to be answered.
